WEATHER

Fair and hazy in the valley through Monday. Mild days and cool nights. Lows in the upper 20s to mid 30s with local frost. Highs both days in the upper 50s to mid 60s. Light winds.

City officials praise support on SAVE issue

Pleasanton Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire was overjoyed Friday at news that the California Supreme Court upheld the SAVE (Save All Valley Environments) initiative passed in April, 1972, by voters in Pleasanton and Livermore.

Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell was pretty happy about the decision, too.

"I'm delighted. I'm almost speechless," said LeClaire when told by a reporter about the decision Friday. "As someone who walked many miles to pass out many of those SAVE petitions, it makes all those miles worthwhile," said LeClaire.

"It's very comforting to hear that the courts will uphold the initiative process related to zoning. I was afraid they would not," said LeClaire.

Tirsell at a press conference at Livermore City Hall Friday praised the court's decision, saying it gives the city the chance to prove that when it lags behind in public services it can refuse to issue more building permits.

Former Livermore council councilman Don Miller, who gave strong support to the initiative when it was passed, said, "I am heartened the public can take action by initiative when an irresponsible city council majority refuses to act on behalf of its constituents."

Although some believe the SAVE issue is now a dead letter because the federal government has dictated a 2 per cent growth rate in the valley, Miller said SAVE is very much alive.

"If sewer capacity suddenly comes becomes available, heavy growth could start right up again, notably in Pleasanton with the current city council. They would throw their growth management plan right out the window if they got all the sewer capacity they want, but the SAVE initiative would then take over," said Miller.

Miller noted that SAVE also applies to a situation where schools go on double session. The type of scheduling now at the two Livermore high schools amounts to double sessions and it's possible that if the city council didn't require builders to add to the high schools or if the public didn't vote bonds to expand the facilities, the SAVE ordinance could cut in and halt residential building in Livermore, said Miller.

Pleasanton Mayor Robert Philcox had no comment on the court decision. He said he had not been involved in politics at the time SAVE was passed and would have to study all the facts before commenting.

High court backs valley growth limit

The state Supreme Court on a 5-2 vote upheld Livermore and Pleasanton's SAVE intiative Friday.

The court, with Justices William Clark and Stanley Mosk dissenting, ruled that voters of a general law city may enact an ordinance by intiative which restricts residential building within the city.

The decision is a landmark in California city law to the extent it is the first time a ruling has held that a general law city may accomplish zoning through the initiative process. The Supreme Court earlier held the initiative process applicable to the zoning ordinance of charter cities in cases involving San Diego and San Jose.

The case will return to Alameda County Superior Court for trial. Livermore City Attorney Gary Reiners said Friday at a city hall press conference, that the next step is up to the Associated Building Industry and others who sparked the case which went to the Supreme Court.

If the homebuilders do not raise any other issues, the case could go dormant and suffer no more challenges, said Reiners.

Maurie Engel, the Hayward attorney who has acted as special counsel for Livermore in its appeal to the Supreme Court, called the decision "a significant victory for the city". He had no further comment because he had not received a copy of the decision Friday.

The SAVE initiative was passed by voters in Pleasanton and Livermore in April, 1972, when the cities were threatened with the prospect of extensive double sessions for schools and there were concerns about growing air pollution and diminishing sewer capacity.

The ordinance passed by the voters states that the city shall stop issuing residential building permits when public facilities such as the schools, sewer plant, or other public accomodations are inadequate.

ABI challenged the ordinance in superior court, claiming that it was unconstitutional to enact a an ordinance through the initiative process. ABI's attorneys contended that due process was violated because the initiative bypassed public hearings at planning commission and city council levels.

The court's decision Friday said that in effect the initiative itself is the public process and really involves more of the public in a discussion of the issues than a public hearing at a city council or planning commission, said Reiners.

Although the SAVE ordinance passed in both Livermore and Pleasanton, the Pleasanton City Council declined to join Livermore in fighting the builders' challenge to the higher courts.

Judge backs 5 demands of teachers

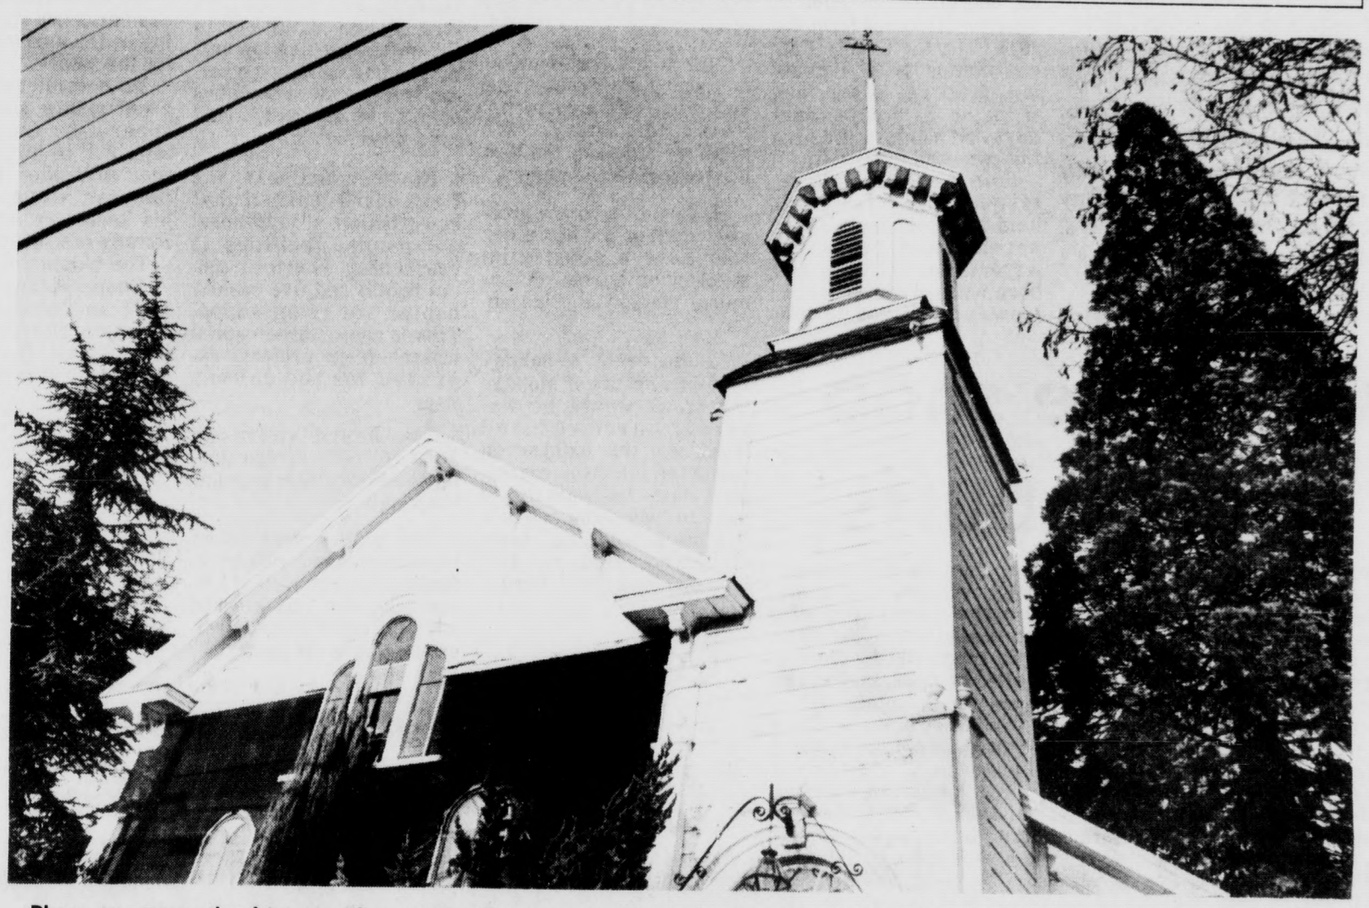
Judge Robert K. Barber of the Alameda County Superior Court Friday afternoon issued an alternative writ of mandate directing the Amador Valley Joint High School District to perform five demans made earlier in the week by Amador teachers, or respond with an alternative at a show cause hearing set for Wednesday, Jan. 5 at 2 p.m.

John S. Muir, California Teachers Association representative, and Dave Woolworth, President of the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association, had read off the demands to the school board and noted the possible legal action Tuesday.

At the same board meeting, board president Wally Decker responded, indicating trustees would restore department chairmen's extra duty pay.

However, Muir said they were not even certain the district would do this and so included it in the five - point list.

AVSEA also wants the district to "immediately remove and return to teachers all evaluation documents, either which have not been shown to teachers and/or have signatures of teachers which are not their true signatures."



Plans to move the historic Pleasanton Community Presbyterian Church from Neal Street to Mirador Drive have been nixed by the congregation because cost estimates have more than doubled.

Doctors scan flu shot in county death

DUBLIN — Raymond G. Brown, age 64, died of paralysis of the central nervous system 16 days after getting his first and only swine flu shot on Oct. 22.

Dr. Henry Avon, attending physician from Fremont, said there was no way to tell at this point if there was any connection between the shot and the patient's paralysis and death that followed.

"I personally can't give an answer regarding this case or similar ones that have been reported because all of the facts have not been researched yet," Dr. Avon said. "I believe it will be two or three weeks before public health officials can come up with some answers to this new development that may or may not be connected to swine flu shots. Some 4000 people get this type of paralytic disease yearly in the United States. Five per cent die from it. So it is hard to say before further research if there is any correlation between swine flu shots and this type of paralysis."

Larry Brown

"The doctors told the family my father had died of Gullain - Barre's disease but we didn't think too much about connecting it to the flu shot until we heard the publicity about it the other day," said Larry Brown, 28 year-old son who lives in Dublin. The father lived in Fremont and died there Nov. 6 in Washington Hospital.

"My father got sick Oct. 31 and went to the emergency room at Washington Hospital," said Brown. "Dad said tnere was terrible pain in his back. His doctor, Dr. Avon, said the problem was a sprained back. Dad had been pruning trees two or three days before so that seemed like a logical diagnosis since there were no other symptoms then. Dad was released and went back home."

According to Brown, his father was unable to walk by the next morning. He was rushed to Washington Hospital by ambulance.

Church members nix move plans

PLEASANTON — The long - planned move of the Presbyterian Church's 100 year old white frame church was reversed by a 56-37 vote of the congregation Thursday night.

The vote appears to be irreversible according to sources close to the congregation. The parish had planned to move its historic building from the corner of Second and Neal streets to the church's other lot on Mirador Drive where its modern education building stands.

However, the actual cost of the move came to $560,000, not the earlier $250,000 estimate, so the congregation decided to cancel the move.

Actually, the move was viewed warily by a majority of the congregation, said an informed source. The green light was given to the move at the lower expenditure, but it always was understood that if costs got out of line, a majority would oppose the move, said the ource.

Pastor Robert Vogt was not available for comment prior to The Times deadline Friday.

The mood at the meeting Thursday night was one of a big family gathering as Vogt suspended the normal rules of parliamentary discussion. After the proposed move was defeated, two alternative plans came forth and they will be discussed at a congregation meeting in January.

One plan is to build a new sanctuary on the Mirador Drive site, probably in increments so that it is affordable and keeps up with the growth of the congregation. The old santuary would be retained on the current site and may be leased out to another congregation as a "seed church" or may serve as a social hall and wedding chapel for the Presbyterian congregation.

The other suggestion is to retain the old church and add to the the sanctuary at that site with minimum expansion of territory.

VALLEY NEWS BRIEFS

Student leader speaks

Students don't want to be "pawns" trapped in the middle of a school war between administrators and teachers, said Mark Zevanove, student body president at Amador Valley High School last week.

Amador teachers are embroiled in a contract dispute currently with district administration.

Zevanove said a teacher vote of no confidence in school chief Bruce Newlin should have been made in closed session. Publicizing it was a breech of professional ethics, he claimed.

Zevanove said he and other Amador district student body officers have discussed class action law suits against teachers if they impose another "minimum day" on students.

Teachers arbitrarily called a minimum day back in October.

Race track operations

The Alameda County Fair Association moved to economize operations last week, cutting back on race track maintenance.

The decision was made in light of losses suffered last summer when a county employe strike washed out two weeks of thoroughbred horse racing at the fair.

The track will not be maintaining the track on weekends or holidays, though it is used as a training center on many of those days.

Murder plea date set

OAKLAND — Jack Raymond Horner, accused of shooting his wife to death in their Dublin apartment Oct. 14, will return to superior court Dec. 30 at 9 a.m. in Department 10 to set a plea.

His attorney, Leon Anderson, was granted a motion for discovery Friday by Judge Hugh Koford. The prosecution was ordered to turn over to the defense all evidence it has accumulated against Horner by Dec. 29.

Horner, 66, a former captain in the sheriff's reserve unit, was found semi - conscious near his wife's body in their Amador Valley Boulevard apartment. Barbara Mae Horner, 49, had died of a single .38 - caliber gunshot wound to the head.

Horner maintains the gun accidentally discharged when he handed it to his wife. The weapon was found in her right hand.

The retired dental equipment salesman remains in Oakland courthouse jail in lieu of $100,000.

Blood needed

A mobile blood unit will be at John Knox United Presbyterian Church, 7421 Amarillo Road, Dublin, Dec. 21, to help ease a critical blood shortage at the Blood Bank of the Alameda - Contra Costa Medical Association.

Donors may give blood between 1 and 7 p.m. Volunteers who are in good health, between 18 and 66 yars, are eligible.

Spokesmen say there is an urgent need for type O-negative blood.

Raiders win close one

Kenny Stabler dove one yard for the winning touchdown with 10 seconds left as the Oakland Raiders edged the New England Patriots 24 - 21 in the first round of the National Football League's American Conference playoffs yesterday at the Oakland Coliseum.

Stabler's score climaxed a brillant drive fo comeback for Oakland, which at one time trailed 21 - 10. Kenny completed 19 of 32 passes for 233 yards to make up for a below - par Raider running game which netted 81.

The Raiders will play the winner of today's Baltimore - Pittsburg game for the AFC championship next Sunday in Oakland.

Legal technicalities

SRV seniors' mini-bus plan detoured

DANVILLE — Plans made by the Alamo, Danville Committee on Aging to share their proposed gift of a mini - bus with Dublin - San Ramon senior neighbors have been temporarily postponed due to legal technicalities.

The bus is being donated to the Alamo, Danville group by the Danville Rotary Club. But those senior citizens cannot accept the mini - bus until documents are received from Sacramento awarding incorporation status to their committee on aging.

"We cannot take title to the bus until then," said Edna Selley, transportation chairman for the Alamo, Danville Committee on Aging. "The insurance aspect is involved. It's a matter of being able to protect all of the people who would be riding the bus."

Selley said the committee expected to hear soon from proper officials in Sacramento.

"We started incorporation proceedings about two months ago," she said. "A local law firm has helped us handle the matter."

The Danville Rotary Club is ready to complete arrangements for purchase and delivery of the $8600 mini - bus.

Selley had originally announced plans to share the bus on a limited service basis to a large group of senior citizens who met at Sunny Glen Community Center Nov. 9 in San Ramon.

"But at this time nothing can be said about that," Selley said. "Our own committee has to get the service operational before we can tackle the details involved in the sharing problem."

A spokesman at Sunny Glen said discussions had been held by seniors in that area about the possibility of fixing up a damaged bus they own in case the Danville - Alamo offer should fall through entirely. They were waiting to hear from the insurance company, he said.

One of the problems involved in eventually settting up the Alamo, Danville bus service is cost of operation, according to Selley. To offset this, an application has been filed by the Alamo, Danville Committee on Aging for a federal grant under title three of the Older American's Act.

In Contra Costa County there is $9,500 available under this grant to any two groups who want to start a busing service for senior citizens. Two stipulations were made. Bus service must be in areas that do not now have hat type of busing for seniors and the group providing service must have a bus. The Alamo, Danville group qualifies on both points.

"One other west - county town was eligible but I'm not certain which one," said Selley. "We think we will be receiving an amount under $5000 since the total figure is to be divided between the two qualifying communities. That is, if we actually get the money and we are fairly certain we will."

This grant money is to be used for gas, oil, maintenance and insurance for a 12 - month period, according to Contra Costa County officials in Martinez.

"That should see us through comfortably until we can raise some money on our own," Selley said.

Drawin' for good eats

New Town proposal

Supervisors' vote may be delayed

Alameda County Bureau

Odds the "lame duck" board of supervisors will pass a general plan amendment favorable to "New Town" before the political balance of the board changes are slim.

The Times check of legal machinations required to get any general plan amendment pushed through leaves the outgoing board with one legal voting day before valley representative Valerie Raymond replaces John Murphy and tips the scale.

And the chances of board chairman Fred Cooper getting an amendment passed Dec. 30 apparently are next to nil.

Fear has flourished since the Nov. 11 release of a county planning report offering three alternative directions for growth in the valley.

One calls for complete development of Harlan Geldermann's "New Town" along with the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton, a challenge to regional, state and federal environmental contraints.

At the other end lie choices between growth as planned by the cities and no provision for the New Town project, or the green light for Geldermann with future development curtailed in the cities.

When the county planning commission voted last week to hold their last public hearing on the alternate amendments tomorrow, fears the "lame duck" board would approve "Geldertown" rose.

But two points of law and a Christmas vacation give Cooper, Geldermann's most vocal proponent on the board, little chance of beating the new year.

The state's Environmental Quality Act requires public input on the draft environmental impact report for 45 days after the draft EIR is issued. Another 15 days are given for staff to answer all comments received in public hearings.

The 45 - day limit is up Dec. 24, and the 15 - day answering period pushes the earliest possible completion date for the final EIR to Jan. 8. Valerie Raymond assumes her post Jan. 3.

Passage of a general plan amendment without a final EIR creates a legal nightmare.

But in the event county planners approve a general plan amendment tomorrow and immediately forward it to the board of supervisors for action, they have only Dec. 30 for a special board meeting both to hold a public hearing and to vote.

Current statutes require 10 - calendar days notice for public hearings on zoning decisions and general plan amendments.

That means a notice posted Dec. 21 — if a properly adjudicated newspaper could get it into print in time — would allow a Dec. 30 meeting. Dec. 31 is a legal holiday.

Since the board meets regularly on Tuesdays, and Dec. 30 is a Thursday, a special meeting would have to be called.

Additionally, the board has cancelled its last meeting in December scheduled for the 28th.

To complicate matters even further, south county supervisor Charles Santana will be away on vacation until after the first of the year, and, according to his secretary, unavailable for any meeting that week.

The balance of the board — Cooper, Murphy, Joseph Bort and freshman John George of Oakland — would leave New Town proponents with little if any margin for error in a tally.

Cooper and Murphy approve of Geldermann's project and have voted accordingly before the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) and the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO).

George said in his campaign that he opposed "leap frog" subdivisions as destructive to the inner city which he represents.

That leaves Bort, who two years voted against another general plan amendment favorable to New Town.

If the machinery is well oiled and the press can carry the legally required posting on one day's notice, the board may muster a vote.

That vote, however, would require swaying Bort or getting Santana to cut short his vacation and vote on a controversial amendment he knows will anger the incoming board.

County fair board curtails weekend track activity

In a move to economize on operations, in light of substantial losses from the 1976 Fair, the County Fair Association is discontinuing "working" of the race track on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays effective this weekend.

Fair Association Secretary-Manager Lee Hall said the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association (HBPA) has been notified of the action. Upwards of 200 to 400 horses are stabled at the Pleasanton grounds in any given month.

"It's a matter of either increasing stall rental fees or taking this approach," Hall said Friday. "We think we acted in the best interests of the horsemen."

Hall said there are probably eight or ten horsemen who have a substantial number of horses (10 or more) stabled at Pleasanton.

In the event a holiday falls on a Friday or Monday the track would be watered, harrowed and dragged so that it did not go unworked for three consecutive days. Hall said they'd have to "wait and see how the track holds up, especially when winds and dust kick up along about April."

"When we look at our account and see there's $750,000 less at the end of November than at the corresponding time last year, we know some economies have to be affected," Hall contended.

In other business, the Fair board learned that construction of additional parimutuel facilities is proceeding. Fourteen sellers booths and five cashier booths are being added. This is one of three capital improvement projects approved for the coming year.

The board approved June 25, 1977, as the date for the floriculture preview showing.

The poultry department superintendency will be offered to George Kell of Livermore, who has worked with 4-H and Future Farmers groups in the past.

Livermore has unique shop for amateur science buffs

LIVERMORE — A science buff's smorgasbord has come to town.

In the guise of a more - than - a - hobby shop, "The Amateur Scientist was opened last month by a pair of electrical engineers to cater to the inquisitive minds — young and old — of this community.

The owners are Mike Olla of Fremont and his son Bob Olla who lives in Livermore with his wife Helen.

Helen is the one who usually greets the curiosity - prone science enthusiasts as they enter the shop at 2326 First St., just a few doors down from city hall.

What the visitors find is a unique combination of displays showing displays of chemists' flasks, astronomes' telescopes, biologists' dissecting kits and microscopes and all the makings for electronic gadgets.

In short, from the conchology shelves near the door to the corner of kiddies' scientific toys, the place is a whirlwind tour of the tools of human discovery about the universe.

The Olla family encourages the scientific approach and figure they've located in a hot bed of scientific, searching minds. Being close to the Lawrence and Sandia labs, as well as GE's Vallecitos location, the Ollas are counting on lots of youngsters picking up more enthusiasm in their place.

Some youngsters are regulars already, walking in the front door and heading for a specific section of the shop.

"It sure beats comics and the boob tube," says Olla as she recalls the way eight and nine year olds come in, "rattling off scientific terms that show their capacity for knowledge."

She smiles and rattles off an apropos slogan of one company whose products The Amateur Scientist carries, "A hobby today is a profession tomorrow."

A youngster with enough imagination can peek into the large refractor telescope near the door and pretend he or she is Galileo, searching the skies for new worlds and stars.

A person interested in things closer to home might peer into another optical instrument — one of several microscopes — while doing a biological dissection or examining the vein structure in a leaf.

Those microscopes come in all sizes, from the stereo, let, 1200 power scope worth several hundred dollars, to the 300 power mode which fits in a pocket.

Then there is the section for the junior scientist, boasting plastic kits which show the structure of the human brain and skull, the anatomically correct structure of the human ear, and another for the eye.

An ant farm — supply your own ants — is ready for the youngster who wants to watch the little busy creatures dig tunnels, build bridges and make their own mountains.

And there is even a kit for eight year olds to make a diode radio.

And, for the more serious amateur scientist, the Amateur Scientist has a helium neon laser for sale.

CC board reviews new jail

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — County supervisors will be briefed Tuesday on site planning for the new jail.

The Board of Supervisors meets at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the county Administration Building.

County officials are studying locatons in the coun-ty's Civic Center area in Downtown Martinez as a site for the proposed new jail.

Other items up for discussion include setting fees for the animal spay clinic and a report on staffing and operational problems at the Sheriff's Communication Center.

Fatal accidents rise in CC County

MARTINEZ — Contra Costa County's 51 fatal traffic accidents so far this year represent a 31 per cent increase over last year's death county, the California Highway Patrol reports.

Capt. Joe Barnett, commander of county's CHP office, said fatal accidents are increasing on county roads in areas east of Antioch and south of Walnut Creek where traffic is light and patrol coverage limited.

Analysis of fatal accidents in the county this year show that drivers who have been drinking alcohol, driving too fast or driving carelessly are the three major causes of fatal accidents.

Police nab suspect in robbery

LIVERMORE — Shortly after the Emperors Garden Restaurant was held up Friday night Livermore police arrested a suspect.

Michael Unick, 23, address unknown, was arrested by police about rut, in connection with the armed robbery of the restaurantlocated at 2180 Third St., Livermore. A waitress, Griselda Mustard had spotted the man get into a yellow Volkswagen immediately following the robbery.

April Lindgren, Emperors Garden cashier, said the armed bandit demanded money upon entering the establishment about 9:15. "He came in the door, walked to the register, dropped a sack at the register and said 'put all the money in the sack or I'll blow your damn head off.' I looked down and saw the gun he was holding and I did what he told me."

It was reported that about $2,000 was taken prior to the arrest.

Fairlands' Christmas play

Typical of the many colorful and well-attended Christmas plays held at valley schools this week was the one at Fairlands School in Pleasanton Wednesday night. Here, "Mr. and Mrs. Claus" greet students dressed in ornament and tree motif. "Mrs. Claus" is played by Olive Hanifen, a teacher at Fairlands who'll be retiring after 34 years of service. Mrs. Hanifen was given a special surprise salute at the beginning of the program by principal Gene Vargas, staff members, students and parents. Kindergarten through fifth grade students participated in Christmas presentation.

Mori appointed to farm labor board

Assemblyman Floyd Mori has been appointed by Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy to head the newly created Joint Committee to Oversee the Agricultural Labor Relations Board.

The Pleasanton Democrat is also expected to be named chairman of the committee, although this must be confirmed by the full committeee.

Other Assembly members named to the joint committee include Democrats Howard Berman of Sherman Oaks, Richard Alatorre of Los Angeles, and Tom Suitt of Palm Springs and Republican Gordon Duffy of Hanford. Members from the Senate have not been selected yet.

The committee was established by Assembly concurrent resolution 229 after funds were cut off to the Argicultural Labor Relations Board last year.

Mori said he anticipates further controversy in the area of agricultural relations, especially in view of the heated contest involved in Proposition 14. Mori is hopeful the committee will carry out the basic intent of the Agricultural Labor Relations Act of 1975.

The act established ground rules for union organizing in agriculture, but some have been critical of the state committee which has overseen elections in the fields. Mori hopes that the committee will be able to insure an impartial committee that will endforce organizing rules fairly at the farms.

Christmas plays perennial appeal

It's process, preparation but not product

LIVERMORE — It looks pretty funky, all those little kids up on the stage in crooked paper costumes sneaking little glances at their mothers.

Not much polish to these second - grade Christmas extravaganzas. They've done a simplified "Nutcracker" at Rincon School, and "The Magic Music Box" at Smith, "A Christmas Carol" and "Christmas in Frontierland" at Arroyo Mocho and countless other pageants and shows throughout the Valley.

Some have fancy scenery and nice costumes, some are rehearsed with religious thoroughness. But most are necessarily casual around the edges — a little backstage racket here, some dropped lines there.

What, then, gives children's Christmas shows their timeless appeal? Why do teachers work themselves into a frazzle, year after year, for a 15 - minute show?

At Rincon School, team teachers Chuck Hazen and Claudia Motta and their aides, Jeanette Froeschner and Rifka McClure, analyzed the process of staging "Nutcracker" with their 60 pupils.

They discovered that the process, not the final product, was the whole point.$

First, Jeanette introduced the team to the idea of a play at a team meeting. With the other teachers' enthusiasm, she guided children in choosing speaking parts, modified the script, helped plan choreography, helped the children plan and make their construction - paper costumes and timed and taped the music.

Rifka read the play to the children, helped them decide on onstage or backstage roles, typed scripts, started the children making scenery and props and repaired and sorted costumes after an "exciting" dress rehearsal.

Chuck, experienced as a drama teacher in summer school, guided the children in choosing speaking parts, explained the need for talk and action at the same time, showed actors how to "block" movements, showed them how to project their voices, prompted and cued and set up the sound system.

Claudia counseled the children on clear enunciation and voice projection and took care of the logistics of getting 50 children into and out of costumes and backstage at the proper time.

Looking back over three weeks of preparation, the teachers and aides listed some of the learning experiences the children shared:

' — It's disappointing not to get the speaking part you want.

— It's exciting, and scary, to get the speaking part you want.

— It's possible to write more parts in a play when there aren't enough speaking parts.

— Talking loud enough so the audience can hear you takes practice.

— Being excited and keeping quiet backstage is almost impossible.

— Both adults and children get upset when the play doesn't go as well as expected.

— Frustration occurs because of the lack of practice time on the stage because many groups are putting on Christmas programs.

— Some leaders need to be developed and decided on when large groups of children act or dance togther.

—Children really become involved in the reality of their roles.

— Boys this age (6 - 8) like only "macho" roles and the majority of girls prefer "princess" roles. Some girls can accept any role.

— We must constantly review that our purpose is the process, not the smoothness of the final production. Our goal is to have the children WANT to be involved in another play.— by Pat Kennedy

Professional ethics violated

Amador leader speaks out

"I think other students agree with me that the teachers' vote of no confidence against Dr. (Supt. Bruce) Newlin should have been addressed in closed session."

Mark Zevanove, student body president at Amador Valley High School, is about as articulate as a young man of 18 years can be. He says what's on his mind within the framework of discreetness and common sense.

He could some day be a school board member, a city councilman or a diplomat ... the three are within his range.

When he makes a comment such as in the opening paragraph, one tends to listen and not scoff that this is "just another wisenheimer young kid."

The comment refers to charges made by Amador Valley Joint High School District teacher and CTA representatives at last Tuesday's board meeting.

"What would it be like if students went around collecting signatures against one teacher and then ran down to the newspaper with it," contends Zevanove.

"Even some of the teachers who signed the petitions agree with me ... that it was a violation of professional ethics," Zevanove claims.

"It was ironic that they were chastizing the board for accepting Dr. Newlin's policies seriously, and then telling Dr. Newlin, 'but don't take it personally.' "

Zevanove had comments and opinions on other teacher - administration problems also.

"The three student body presidents (Amador, Dublin, Foothill) got together recently and discussed the possibility of walking out if another minimum day were called." The comment is in reaction to a minimum day arbitrarily called by teachers back in October as a negotiations tactic.

"We have also discussed a class action suit," adds Zevanove.

And paraphrasing the lead comment made by his brother, Steve, at the board meeting Tuesday, Zevanove says, "We really don't want to have a 'war' on school grounds with students used as pawns in a massive chess game between the administration and teachers."

On the school board's stand: "I think they are going to hold pretty firm."

The teaching staff: "We have really good teachers at Amador. I think this is something the public should know. There are some teachers at Amador that have been in other districts and seen the damage that can be done by strife such as this. But, let's face it, this is a pretty good place to work at. They're usually met by receptive students ... there are worse places to work."

On running for the school board: I may run for the board in March. If I were to run, I'd conduct a full campaign. I've talked to Mrs. Finn (trustee Karen Finn) and Dr. Newlin about it ... as to what it would cost to put on a campaign. I've been a representative to the school board for two years and in student government for three years."

Valley Memorial nixes proxy vote

LIVERMORE — There won't be any proxies after all for Vally Memorial Hospital corporation members who want to vote at the annual meeting held in February.

The idea of sending out mail - back proxies, in addition to ballots for the election of directors, was discussed at length at Thursday night's hospital board meeting, but abandoned after directors couldn't agree on how a proxy vote would be handled.

Directors Jim Nissen and Eric Wente advanced the idea of proxies as a democratic way of allowing all members to participate in the annual meeting.

However, the board (with director Emily Schwarz absent) did approve major by - laws changes. The majority of balloting by VMH's 4,000 members to elect new directors will still be by mail, but for those who want to deliver their ballots in person polling hours are shorter now.

VMH administrator Tom Andrews suggested shortening the hours to 9 - 5 so his own office could be the polling place. Previously, hours were 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. but Andrews said n office in the hospital is open during those extended hours.

The modified by - laws now outline the procedure by which corporation members may call a special meeting.

"Special meetings of members for any purpose may be called at any time by the board of directors or by a request filed with the secretary signed by not less than 10 per cent of the members and stating the general nature of the business to be taken up," says the new section.

The annual meeting — to be held this year on Feb. 17 — is expected to be as lightly attended and as uneventful as those in past years. One small difference will be that polls will have closed at 5 p.m. instead of remaining open through 8 p.m. As soon as the meeting begins, the chairman will ask for remaining ballots, which will be added to those being counted.

The three nominees for director — incumbents Joe Sladky and Jack Bras, and nominee Ed Rundstrom — are unchallenged.

The main reason VMH directors were considering a proxy vote was to make it possible to raise the quorum necessary for action at the annual meeting.

As it stands now, the quorum is 30 and a majority of 16 people could theoretically pass any decision at the annual meeting.

As director Eric Wente saw it: "Sixteen people could sail in. One would move to sell the land in Pleasanton (site of a proposed, controversial medical center), another would second it, 16 would vote for it and you're directed to do it."

The board blanched at the thought of 16 members "of a radical minority overthrowing something," as board chairman Ted Fairfield put it.

Director Jack Bras suggested, "There must be a simpler way to keep 16 people from taking over" without resorting to a special mailing of proxy forms which would then have to be collected and tabulated.

Over 1000 pounds of dog and cat food were donated to the Help Every Little Pet club at Mendenhall School in Livermore. The 35 active junior high members canvassed door-to-door and raised enough food to feed the animals at the Santa Rita Animal Control Facility for at least two months.

Club raises 1000 pounds of pet food

Pet lovers bring holiday cheer to shelter

BY LUCY HOBGOOD-BROWN

It all began when students started bringing strays to Jane Houghton's classroom at Mendenhall School. The Livermore Spanish teacher soon had her hands full trying to find homes for cats and dogs of all sizes. But instead of throwing up her hands in despair, Jane decided to form an animal lovers club at the junior high.

Today, four years later, Jane's club boasts 35 active members. Together the Help Every Little Pet club (HELP) has managed to raise hundreds of dollars that have gone towards multiple projects. A yearly October bike - a - thon raises money to help pay for the spaying and neutering of pets belonging to interested pet owners at Mendenhall. A 40 per cent discount is given by a valley veterinarian who enthusiastically backs the club's attempts of keeping the local pet population down — and healthy.

With co-sponsor Michelle Wilson, Jane also takes the HELP members on field trips to club - related Bay events like the Grand National Horse Show. Weekly meetings frequently offer informative tips by experts on how to shoe a horse or groom your dog.

Both club sponsors teach heavily loaded class schedules, but still take the time to support HELP. Physical education teacher Michelle admits that "the super energetic kids" do wear her out now and then, but that "it's worth it."

Faculty support of HELP "hasn't been as a strong as it could be," according to The Dynamic Duo, as they laughingly dubbed themselves in the middle of an exhausting project. But Mendenhall School administrators are often in the middle of HELP projects, as principal Robert Dougherty demonstrated Dec. 16 when he drove a carload of club members out to the Santa Rita Animal Control Facility.

To the amazement of Sgt. James Turner, county kennel supervisor, the kids unloaded enough dry and canned food to feed the dogs and cats at the facility for "at least two months." The massive food raising project was undertaken less than two weeks ago, when HELP members began a door-to-door canvassing for pet food.

The knowledge that the Alameda County shelter cannot keep abandoned animals, which have included everything from wild bobcats to fighting cocks, more than a certain number of days — unless plenty of room and food is available — motivated the club to taking quick action.

With the help of local feed stores, neighborhood contributions and donations from Mendenhall students, HELP raised over 1000 pounds of pet food. A glance at their calendar was enough to hope that valley residents would be motivated by the Christmas spirit to adopt some of the shelter's woebegone castoffs.

If it hadn't been for the shelter's policy of not allowing anyone under 18 to take an animal home, every HELP member would have gone home with a stray tucked under their arm! A tour of the sparkling clean shelter was met with enthusiasm on both sides of the kennel fence, as sad-eyed dogs brightened to the possibility of finding a home at last.

According to Sgt. Turner, 30 per cent of the animals picked up either because of negligent owners or as unregistered strays are put to sleep. An adoption fee of $10 for animals under four months old is charged; $19 for animals over four months. This fee covers both rabies and distemper shots.

The Santa Rita Animal Control Facility is open 365 days a year from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information on adopting an animal or locating a lost pet, call 828-0824.

Sgt. James Turner, county kennel supervisor, may look tough but he's got a soft spot for animals! This cute terrier mix is just one of the many animals taken in by the shelter, which has handled everything from elephants to alligators.

County plan

All the political maneuvering over the county's "General Plan Amendment" for this valley might lead one to believe "Geldertown" is the only game in town. It's pitted the cities — most notably Livermore — against the county, landowners, developers and fellow travelers on the road to suburban boon.

Notably lacking in the diatribes to date has been any discussion of the rest of the valley.

Granted the effects of Harlan Geldermann's Las Positas project will reach into the most secluded alcove of the county's eastern quadrant. Nevertheless, his "New Town" would consume only 9,000 acres of this valley's total 418 square miles — a piddling 3 per cent.

What of the ridgelands, ranches, quarry pits et al that make up the 393 acres of "unincorporated" land the county claims for its turf?

And what, pray tell, of Dublin and its 15,000 residents? They've become the forgotten step - child in this family squabble. Where have all the "movers and shakers" who push for cityhood been while county commissioners overlook the town's fate?

Dublin, a paradigm for the rest of valley's "county country," is riddled with land use fights it must carry to Oakland for resolution — a by-product of its "non-city" status. But those fights are always after the fact.

It would seem much too simple and pragmatic a solution to recognize and deal with all the valley now. It is, after all, the "Livermore - Amador Valley General Plan Amendment," not the "Great Debate over Geldertown."

Britain's lesson

The message brought to a Valley audience by a distinguished representative of Great Britain is a warning we might all take to heart.

"We just can't throw money at our problems anymore," Donald Stokes, England's consul general in San Francisco, told that Livermore audience. It has been said by others inside and outside those British Isles lately, to audiences of greater scope. But the reasoning is always the same.:

"Pump priming is a poor answer to a society's economic ills. The long - term results promise an even greater disaster."

The United States should be grateful to England — its closest counterpart in things economic, industrial, even political. We have seen this good neighbor slip from world leadership to near - collapse, in less than 30 years. Nor can World War II be blamed for Britain's economic reversal, not when one looks at Germany, Japan and the other major combatants in that great conflict.

The malaise of Great Britain is one of the spirit; a nation of workers turned into a society of dependents; a proud people now reliant on socialism's next handout.

That is the real tragedy of Great Britain. And that is the lesson this country must learn, before we fall into the same pit.

But do we care?

The tremendous damage being done to England and to the English people by "the government handout" is closer to our own country than we care to think; as close perhaps as our own community.

We recall that city council meeting where a department head spent close to an hour detailing the steps, the studies and the paper work necessary to gain "federal grants" totalling some $25,000, and that would allow the installation of several traffic safety signs ... at federal standards, of course.

"When you add up your time, and ours," one council member observed, "it would seem this city could do the job much cheaper on our own, without the federal help." But the city went ahead and applied for the grant, because that's the way it's done.

You need only to look at that last community park, the restoration of an ancient dwelling, housing for senior citizens and water lines into the new tract ... to find evidence in your own town of "the governmental handout."

We reason that "It's our money anyway ... we might as well get our share." And so it is with the great MediCare ripoffs, the abuses in welfare payments, the scandal of the food stamp program, or a BART director's expense account.

But it is not just "that other crook" who is feeding at the public trough. We are, each of us, far more guilty than we care to admit ... those of us who push and shove for this or that municipal luxury, without ever questioning the source of those funds, or even the cost of "accepting" that federal grant.

It is an illness that permeates every American city, every suburb. And it is the American tradition for individual initiative and pride that will suffer, in all this socialistic shuffling of dollars.

Great Britain found out, the hard way. Are we next?

RON McNICOLL

Retail zoning

The question of whether or not government should get involved in regulating business competition locally through the zoning process has come up recently in Pleasanton.

Chris Beratlis wants to build his Oak Tree Center across Valley Avenue from the Alpha Beta Center, down Valley Avenue from Valley Plaza and the Amador Shopping Center, and down Hopyard Road from the Lucky - Val Vista Shopping Center. A merchant in the Alpha Beta Center thinks that part of good plannning is to regulate the supply of commercial services available so that the business climate is stable for thoe already in business.

And he seems to have a good point there. Despite the planning commission's recent assertion that it can't judge applications by their economic merits or demerits, that honorable body in the past has adhered to a policy on gas station construction which does exactly that. The planning staff reported a few years ago that the city has enough gas stations to meet its needs until 1980. Although one station got in since that policy was ennunciated, others were turned down. The concern was to prevent a "gasoline alley", notably on Hopyard Road. But another underlying reason is that too many gas stations means that someone goes broke and leaves an ugly, deteriorating gas station behind.

The same holds true for neighborhood centers, as a quick look around Hayward, San Leandro and other suburbs which have gone through a shopping center growth boom. The older smaller centers get replaced by those with bigger food markets and more shops. The older centers run down and are almost as much an eyesore as abandoned gas stations.

The planning commission has taken the stand on the Oak Tree Center that it cannot interfere in free market competition. Although it has violated this in the past sub rosa on gas stations, it sounds to some like the American Ideal which ought to be followed as the rule. Not true, as far as this writer is concerned. The facts show that on the federal level the government has been interfering with free market competition since the 1820's when the first federal subsidy to private enterprise was granted to the indigo industry in South Carolina. It's been all downhill since then, with taxpayers subsidizing socialism for the rich and the not so rch.

The question, then, is whether or not local government ought to get involved, not with a direct cash subsidy, but with what amounts to protectionism. For my own mind, I would support it only from the standpoint of what the community has to gain from it, namely preventing the eyesore of too much commercial space sittingaround vacant and deteriorating. It may be too soon to start this kind of protectionism. Balance between commercial and residential is important and stated clearly in the city's general plan; problem is to decide where and when this balance is occurring. It's a tough decision, a real art, but the decision makers should not think that economic factors don't affect community aesthtics. They do for gas stations and some day for certain they will for shopping centers.

The week in retrospect

Letter to schools

An open letter to the administration and teacher unit leaderships of the Amador Valley Joint High School, Livermore Valley Unified, Pleasanton Joint School and San Ramon Valley Unified School Districts:

I believe the majority of persons in each school district who have more than a passing interest in school affairs would like to see you get together and complete contract negotiations for 1976-77.

It is quite possible they are fed up with reports of the endless series of negotiation and mediation sessions, charges and counter charges, shows - of - solidarity by teachers, seemingly defensive attitude of board members, and general inability to effectively communicate.

From this writer's viewpoint, I would suggest that your respective negotiators, plus at least two school board members, lock themselves in the board room of their respective central district offices and STAY THERE until a contract is agreed upon.

True, this will deprive all of the company of their friends and family members for goodness - knows how many hours. Someone will have to be dispatched for food and drink. The electricity bill will be strained.

But think of what the end result will be!

You could well come to agreement on a contract.

Board members will get to know who the teacher reps really are and visa versa.

You all are really fine, upstanding people— but lousy communicators!

The alternatives??

Well, the alternatives are (1) more confrontations, (2) filing of unfair labor practice and other suits, (3) more hastilycalled "press conferences" and (4) a wider breach than now exists between school administrations and teachers.

Speaking of press conferences, I would like to know how much the California Teachers Association is paying out in motel room bills for these confabs.

Just this month alone, CTA rep John S. Muir and the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association (AVSEA) have held three such meetings— at the Livermore Holiday Inn, Howard Johnson's and the Estates Room of the Fairmont in San Francisco.

While this adds up to no more than $100 total, it eventually comes from dues paid to the local CTA affiliate by teachers.

But multiply tha by the number of school districts in this state that (like the Amador district) have not settled to date....it's in the hundreds (of districts).

It is encouraging to see students speak out (as reported in The Times Thursday) in reaction to teacher - administration confrontations ... seeing as how they are the ones who are guaranteed to lose by all the back-and-forth contract verbiage.

About the only ones who've not said much is the general populace. And I have a sneaking hunch— if pressed— they, too, would like to see both sides locked into a room until a settlement is affected.

Nutcracker Suite

Editor, The Times:

The Toyland Chapter of Children's Home Society appreciates the excellent coverage given by this newspaper for our December 2 fund raising performance of the Nutcracker Suite by the Oakland Ballet Company. The cooperation of your staff helped to make this event a true success.

We would also like to publicly thank Sage Books of Pleasanton and Curtis Music of Livermore for permitting us to use their facilities as ticket outlets and for answering many of the telephone inquiries. A special thanks also to Mr. Dabney, vice-principal of Amador High School, for his help and support in preparing the Amador High theater and providing technical logistics.

Without the support of these people and the community at large, this fine performance of the Nutcracker Suite could not have been presented. Thank you

Readers defend 'Birthright'

Filling a need

Editor, The Times:

I was sorry to read the headline "Abortion stalls Lab charity drive" in the Valley Times, Dec. 8th issue. The article that followed gave little evidence that such was the case. Even if it were true, disgruntled donors to the Home Fund might be acting on misapprehension about Birthright. It is a service organization and not allowed by its charter to engage in political activity.

Birthright deserves community support. It fills a need that no other agency in this area fills. Its sole purpose is to give practical help and emotional support to pregnant women and girls who are experiencing distress for any reason, while at the same time being concerned for the welfare of the unborn child. In addition to providing referral information, Birthright workers have provided such personalized services as private transportation, meeting with clients at all hours of the day and night and visiting clients in the hospital.

For the past five years Birthright has worked well with community agencies and has received referrals from local doctors, the Alameda County Welfare and Probation Departments and the Pleasanton Health Care Center.

Goal is met

Editor, The Times:

A column in the December 15 Valley Times incorrectly stated that the pregnancy counseling organization Birthright was "blamed by a Lawrence Livermore Lab spokesman for the failure of LLL's annual charity drive to reach its dollar goal."

In fact, our HOME charity campaign has now collected $98,500 with some pledge cards yet to be opened. We are, therefore, within 1.5% of our $100,000 goal. I made a statement to LLL employees earlier this month when we were still several thousand dollars short. The statement pointed out that HOME gives exactly equal dollars to two quite different organizations: Birthright and Planned Parenthood.

Our explanatory literature last fall did not make this equal treatment clear to all LLL employees. Planned Parenthood is one of several organizations listed in the fine print under the large fund raising organization CHAD. Birthright, however, had its own bold face listing. For the employees who had expressed concern that the campaign might be helping the one agency and not the other, and for still other employees who might have wondered but said nothing, I explained our policy of contributing equally. No blame was intended or expressed.

I am very pleased to report that our present campaign has been the most successful we have had thanks to the interest in the community on the part of LLL employees.

Gift of life

To The Times:
(Attn: Mike Zampa,)

Last night I watched a Christmas music program hosted by a young man, John Denver, I think.

At the end of the program he talked about what Christmas had meant to him as a child, then what it had meant to him as an adult. He had opposite feelings — as a child Christmas was a thing of wonder, gifts, lights, joy. As an adult, he thought it was commerialized and meaningless.

Then he married and now has a baby son, Zachary. The child means more to him than anything, he said. He spoke of Christmas meaning for him as coming full cycle; now, with the baby, he feels the same wonder and joy he had as a child. He composed a song and it was a lovely ballad. He then made a simple statement about the greatest gift of all.

To that young man, and to me, the greatest gift we can give is the gift of life. Without the gift of life, he would not have Zachary. If my mother had not given me the gift of life, I would never have enjoyed all the wonderful things that have happened to me. Every day of my life, I thank God for giving me a mother who gave me life; every day of my life, I thank God for giving me another day.

If we have people like that young John Denver, life is going to be better. So here is a contribution to Birthright. I work at the Lab.

round the town

If you think selecting the members of a new presidential cabinet is easy, you should stop by the Carter Transitional Offices in Plains, Georgia. There is no busier place in the land these days.

Located just above Brother Billy's Bar and Garage, the Carter transitional staff has been particularly humping this past week because of the heavy flow of tourists through Plains. It was part of the lease agreement with Brother Billy that the Carter Transitional Offices could have the desired space above the garage, provided the staff also took care of Billy's customers on the ground floor.

"It looked like a good deal at first," explained John Doe, head of the Carter Transitional Team at Plains. "Real economical, and all that. But frankly, it has been getting kind of hectic around here lately ... trying to fill the Carter cabinet while we're also having to fill some tourist's tank with gas."

I was impressed with the business tone of both operations however. Telephones were ringing like crazy upstairs, while the little bell over the door into Billy's Bar and Garage kept ding - a - linging downstairs.

"We've got a hot lead on the ideal choice for Secretary of Commerce," Tom Ordinary was saying, with one phone tucked under his ear and another in his hand. "This guy's a past president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, a one - time Freedom Fighter in Mississippi, he's part Arabian AND he's a big stockholder in Levi Strauss & Co."

"Won't do," John Doe replies. "Jimmy's already got former Freedom Fighters in Health & Welfare and the United Nations. And three of his Cabinet choices hold stock in Levi Strauss. We've got to start broadening the search a little."

"Get that red phone!" Sam Simple shouts, "it's the boss calling us on the hot line."

"You get the phone and I'll get the front door ding - a - ling," Neal Nobody replies. "If we goof up on just one more of Billy's customers we're liable to lose this office space."

Sam Simple picks up the red phone.

"Yessirree Jimmy," he says. "You bet! Sounds great. You can count on us. Goodbye Jimmy."

"Guess what!" Sam Simple announces to the rest of the Transitional staff. "Jimmy suggests we name his daughter, Amy, as Secretary of Lemonade Stands for District of Columbia. He says it was one of two conditions laid down by Amy during the campaign when she agreed to enroll in Stevens Public Elementary School."

"What was the other condition?" John Doe asks, nervously.

"Amy gets to be the nation's first woman Secretary of Tree Climbing," Sam Simple says. "But she's agreed to hold off on that appointment until she's 13 years old."

"Here's a call coming in from the Labor Bowl," Tom Ordinary announces. "We've had scouts covering that action in search of an all - star Secretary of Labor. Hello," he says into the phone. "Why, that's great news! Thanks a lot for calling, George.

"Guess what?" Tom Ordinary announces, hanging up the phone. "George Meaney says to tell Jimmy there's no need to spend money on a Secretary of Labor ... the AFL - CIO has volunteered to handle that cabinet post from their own offices. Boy, I just can't wait to give Jimmy the good news," Tom says, running down the steps.

"See if that customer needs an oil change or another beer while you're down there," Peter Plains hollers. "I'm tuckered out from running up and down those stairs."

At this point the red phone rings again.

"Hello? That you Jimmy?" Peter Plains says. "Yesirree boy! A terrific choice. Wow! Wait until the nation hears about this!" Peter Plains hangs up and excitedly turns to the rest of the Transitional crew. "Guess what! Jimmy has just named his SECRETARY OF EVERYTHING! She's a full blooded American Indian woman from the Tennessee Tribe and whose granddaddy founded the Sioux Chapter of the NAACP. She's a member of Local 13 of the Feather Makers Union and it is reliably reported she's never had a thought in her head, lusting or otherwise.

"Now we can all go home," Peter Plains adds. "With a Secretary of Everything, Jimmy won't need them other cabinet members after all."

"Jimmy Carter may not need a cabinet,' Sam Simple says, "but Billy Carter sure needs this room cleaned up before tonight's big Poker and & Beer Session. Some of you fellas want to help me shift these desks around ... and you rush downstairs and answer the front door ding - a - ling, Peter. It sounds like somebody else needs his engine overhauled, too."

The Lung Association does good work guarding our nation's lungs from air pollution and cigarette smoke. And we newspaper types give them publicity in their mission. As a reward for our publicity, the Lung Association sent us a complimentary box of chocolates for the holiday season.

And that got me to wondering how the Diabetes Association feels about that gift. I bet you wouldn't catch the Diabetes Assoiciation giving a box of chocolates to the press at Christmas time. On the other hand, maybe they'd give us a carton of cigarettes to help undo the work of the lung association. This may bear some examination in a future story. Some enterprising muckraker may want to see whether one health association is trying to undermine the work of a another. Maybe the American Cancer Society is passing out fifths of scotch to undermine the work done by Alcoholics Anonymous. Perhaps Al Anon will get back at them by passing out cigarettes, or a case of number two red food dye or some other substance which doctors say cause cancer in rats. (I often wonder whether rats congregate somewhere and use doctors in experiments).

It would be interesting if these associations would send out Christmas gifts more in line with what they do. The Lung Association might send us a bottle of oxygen which we can inhale on smoggy days. Alcoholics Anonymous might want to send us some fruit juice to cut down our craving for booze. The Diabetes Society might want to send us sugar - free soda. The Cancer Society might send us health foods free from additives. But the gift I'm looking forward to is the one the United Way specializes in : money.

Dr. Lamb

Dropped kidney is quite common

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a condition called right renal nephroptosis, dropped kidney. I was refused full coverage under my medical insurance because of this condition. What can I expect to go wrong medically with a condition such as this? Is a person subject to infection of the urinary tract with this condition? Should a person with this condition exercise or just be content with walking? I have never been ill with this condition: it was discovered accidentally by the physician with an X ray.

DEAR READER — You are not as unusual as you think regardless of what the insurance company ruled. One out of every five adult women has a dropped kidney, and it most often involves the right kidney. It occurs less frequently in men.

The kidney moves around a lot more than you might imagine. It is anchored to the diaphragm and that is partly responsible for the normal mobility of the kidney. It may drop as much as one and a half vertebral spaces in normal people when standing.

If it drops more it is properly called nephroptosis. And in most cases it does not cause any symptoms. It is usually found with an X-ray examination in otherwise normal healthy individuals. In fact, one of the men selected for the astronaut program had the same condition. It didn't keep him out of the program.

A dropped kidney is more likely to be found in a person with a long, thin torso and it may be associated with poor abdominal tone and a tendency for all of the organs to sag when the individual is standing. In this regard I would say you might benefit from an exercise program that strengthen your abdominal muscles.

Sit-ups with the knees bent, abdominal tensing and various leg lift exercises may help in this regard. I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding the Big Middle, to give you more information on exercise. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Walking does not use the abdominal muscles much and you will need other exercises to develop and maintain good abdominal tone.

There are some people with a dropped kidney who have problems. The kidney may drop so much that it kinks the ureter and blood vessels to the kidney. This can prevent proper circulation to the kidney and affect its drainage. This may cause severe pain, with nausea and a severe drop in blood pressure. The condition is relieved by lying down. The kidney floats back to normal position and the difficulty caused by kinking goes away.

A few patients also have transitory high blood pressure related to the dropped kidney. The key to evaluating symptoms related to a dropped kidney is noting if they occur while standing and if they disappear when lying flat.

Rarely a person will need to have the kidney tacked into a more permanent position by surgery. This is not justified in anyone without symptoms and only in rare individuals with symptoms important enough to require surgical intervention. I would expect your condition will have little effect upon your health, but a good program to maintain good abdominal tone and good posture would be a wise course for you to follow.

Q. "TELL ME ABOUT THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT."
ROBERT BISBY ACME, WY
A. THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT, ERECTED IN HONOR OF OUR FIRST PRESIDENT, WAS COMPLETED IN 1884. IT IS MORE THAN 555 FEET HIGH, AND IS BUILT MAINLY OF GRANITE FACED WITH WHITE MARBLE.

The Washington Monument is a great monument built to honor George Washington, the first president of the United States. It stands in Washington, D.C., near the Potomac River.

The monument was started in 1848, but due to lack of funds and political quarrels, it was not completed until 1884.

Built of masonry and granite, faced with white marble, the monument is the tallest all-stone structure (without steel) in the world. Its majestic tapering column rises more than 555 feet into the air. A cap of aluminum protects the pyramid-shaped tip of the monument.

Inside the monument is hollow. An elevator and a flight of 898 steps lead to an observation room 500 feet above the ground.

To the north stretches the great parkway to the White House. To the east you can glimpse the gleaming dome of the U.S. Capitol. To the west and south you can see the Lincoln Memorial and the Jefferson Memorial.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Staunch faith in yourself and your ideals encourages others to trust you as well. The example you set today is a good one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be tender and generous with one you love today and you will receive far more than you give. Think "togetherness."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Let your mate have the last word in decisions today. His ideas are apt to be more mutually advantageous.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) To appreciate today to its fullest, do something both creative and constructive. You won't be happy if your hands and mind are idle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're entitled to a day of fun and relaxation. Shelve anything that reminds you of the workaday world and just go and enjoy yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's a good day to entertain at home persons who can be helpful to you in your career. Bonds will be strengthend in friendly surroundings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be hesitant to pop in on someone you're very fond of but haven't seen much of lately. This person is equally eager to see you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be alert today for ways to add to your resources. Something profitable is in the offing and could surface at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your chances for success look very promising today, provided you take a personal hand in matters. Don't leave things to others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Stay in the background today. Guide with suggestions rather than demands. Kind words will evoke the response you seek.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone who never thought too much of you will alter his views after watching your winnings ways in action today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have more than a slight edge over one who would compete against you today. Keep this in mind if you're challenged.

Opening lead — Ace ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "A letter from Wisconsin reads, in part, 'My hand calls for an opening club bid in all books. My partner passed and East doubled. I passed as did everyone else and West promptly cashed four clubs before shifting to the ten of hearts. All I managed to collect were three tricks while the opponents collected 1200 points including 100 for honors. What should I have done?'"

Jim: "He should have a talk with his partner. Once West passed the double North should have rescued somewhere. The simple rescue would be to try one of some suit. The expert way to rescue would be by means of an SOS redouble."

Oswald: "This type redouble is dangerous. Partner might pass. He shouldn't! North has shown a very bad hand by his pass to one club. He just cannot want to try to make one club redoubled."

Jim: "If North does redouble, South can run to any one of his suits. If this is doubled the play will be interesting and complicated but he will only go down one or two tricks and won't have to pay for the honors."

Oswald: "It is far more likely that West will bid clubs himself and East-West will either get to a notrump game or settle for a club part score."

Ask the Jacobys

An Arizona reader wants to know what he should bid with: ♠ 32 ♥ A 8765 ♦ A K 4 ♣ Q J 9. No one is vulnerable and the bidding has gone one notrump-pass-pass.

The correct bid is to pass and let your opponent play one notrump. Any bid is too dangerous.

Stabler's plunge keeps Raiders alive

By Charlie Zeno

Quarterback Kenny Stabler scrambled to he left behind the blocking of guard Gene Upshaw and lunged into the end zone from one yard out with 10 seconds left Saturday to give the Oakland Raiders a dramatic come - from - behind 24 - 21victory in the National Football League playoffs.

The cliffhanger win advanced the Raiders to the American Conference championship game next Sunday in Oakland against the winner of today's Baltimore - Pittsburgh clash in the east.

The Raiders were behind, 21 - 10 after three periods before they came on with another of their patented finishes to qualify for the AFC title game for the fourth consecutive season.

Coach John Madden was ecstatic over the triumph that saw his gridders battle uphill most of the way in the face of numerous penalties that gave the Patriots seven first downs and led to a pair of touchdowns by the visitors.

"I have a special feeling for this club" Madden remarked in the home club's dressing room after it was over. Referring to early season injuries that virtually wiped out his entire front four linemen on defense, Madden said "This team has been through so much adversity this season that it makes me proud of its accomplishments. We've been there, no matter what happens out there on the field".

Adding to the Raiders' miseries were the rash of penalties— 11 calls against them for 93 yards that came at most unopportune times.

Ironically, it was a penalty that turned the tide for Oakland late in the game when Ray Hamilton was called for roughing the passer Stabler) giving Oakland life in that final drive with only 52 seconds left in the game. That put the ball on the New England 13 yard line and four plays later Stabler dove in for the winning TD.

The Patriots, looking very much like the team that stormed past Oakland early this season by a score of 48 - 17, marched 86 yards in 10 plays for the first touchdown of the game with 3:41 left in the first quarter. John Smith's kick made it 7 - 0.

Key gainers in the drive were passes from quarterback Steve Grogan to tight end Russ Francis for 40 yards and to Darryl Stingley for 24, the latter going out of bounds on the Raider one yard line. Andy Johnson rammed rough right tackle for the TD.

The Raiders answered this with a 40 - yard field goal by Errol Mann after the Patriots stopped them on their own 23 yard line.

Oakland beat the halftime clock for a go - ahead touchdown when Stabler passed 31 yards to Fred Biletnikoff, who wrested the ball from defender Bob Howard in the New England end zone. There were only 39 seconds left in the half when Freddie B made the sensational grab that put Oakland ahead, 10 - 7.

The Raiders took the second half kickoff and drove to midfield before they were forced to punt.

This time, the Patriots covered 80 yards in nine plays, the payoff coming on a 26 - yard pass from Grogan to the 6 - 6 Francis, who caught the ball on their 12 and went over standing up. Smith's conversion made it 14 - 10, New England.

Bogged down again by penalties, the Raiders were forced to give up the ball again and New England made the most of it by marching downfield to its third touchdown which former Raider Jesse Phillips registered on a three yard run. This drive covered 55 yards in 10 plays and the Pats had a 21 - 10 bulge with 1:23 left in the third quarter.

After Carl Garrett returned the New England kickoff to the Oakland 30, the Raiders launched their comeback with a 17 - yard pass from Stabler to Biletnikoff, who was the game's leading receiver with nine catches for 137 yards.

Ten plays later, Mark vanEeeghen hit tackle for a touchdown that closed the gap to 21 - 17 as 53,045 partisan Raider rooters started their chant for victory.

They got it after an exchange of possessions in a drive that started from the Oakland 32 yard line. Stabler, who was not having one of his better days, started pitching strikes, hitting Biletnikoff, Cliff Branch and Dave Casper in that order for good gains. It took 12 plays before Stabler posted the game - winner that sent the Raiders home happy to await the outcome of today's Steeler - Colt contest.

Describing the winning play, Stabler said it was an option rollout. "I called the same play against Cincinnati and passed to Casper for the score", he recalled. "This time, I didn't see Dave and made a run for it".

Raider win should make history

By Dave Weber

OAKLAND — Clip this out and save it.

For the next time you see a detailed recount of the last - minute rally that gave the Oakland Raiders their 24 - 21 win over the New England Patriots yesterday afternoon will be in one of those glossy $12.95 "Great Moments in Football" books.

In 4:12 of chilly football the Raiders covered 68 yards in 12 plays and added the name of the Patriots to the list of teams they've stunned in the waining moments of a game they could not lose.

The drive started as though it would end quickly,fullback Mark van Eeghen taking three choppy steps before Steve Zabel smothered him. Ken Stabler dropped back to pass on the following play, then the turf gave way, nearly dropping the Snake on his back. But as he fell Stabler floated a pass to Fred Biletnikoff at the right hash mark for a seven - yard gain.

Stabler then went to Cliff Branch, cutting outside to the left for eight, but missed him with a try for a repeat performance.

A small delay. Ken stayed in the air with a soft lob that Patriot back Bob Howard decided he'd like to intercept. Uh - Uh — Biletnikoff for 12.

After the two - minute warning, Casper darted in front of New England linebacker Sam Hunt to grab a 21 - yarder — his biggest pickup of the day — that took the ball to the 19.

Mel Lunsford, however, raced in to drop Stabler for an eight - yard loss and when Ken's pass to Casper was broken up at the right flag by Dick Conn and Howard, the Raider fans' black soxs took on a mornful appearance.

But the fun was just begining.

Onthird - and - 18, Stabler went to the other corner for running back Carl Garrett and when Conn and Tim Fox slammed into him the crowd of 53,045 howled for an interferance call. No, but would they settle for roughing the passer? They did, as the 14 - yard assessment against Sugar Bear Hamilton renewed the Raiders' life with a first down at the 13.

Hamilton, needless to say, was upset. Three plays later, after an unsportmanshiplike conduct call against the Pats' (McCra), he asked an offical, obviously in rather vulgar terms to "throw me out of the game".

They did and after the game, he was still fuming. "Shhhhh...tip the - - - ball and they call roughing."

A pass to Casper and a run up the middle by Clarence Davis put the Raiders on the four, third and one.

In came Pete Banaszak, the veteran fixture in short - yardage situations. He got the yard, and McCray's penalty put the ball on the one.

Banaszak got the first crack at scoring, but couldn't get in, so Stabler rolled around left end and skitted into the end zone with :10 showing.

The game - winning play was the identical option that gained Oakland a three - yard touchdown pass to Casper two weeks ago against Cincinnati.

"The coaches wanted to run that play on first down, but I disagreed so we went off tackle," Stabler said. Banazak didn't fret when he couldn't score through the line.

"I've been here 11 years and I know that this ballclub never quits," he said. "Not as long as that lefthander's in the huddle."

Guard Gene Upshaw, the Oakland offensive captain who'se block on forceman Mike Haynes keyed the play, joked about the attention he received afterward.

"I'm glad you're talking to the horse for a change instead of Paul Revere," he laughed, jestering towards Stabler's dressing stall.

"Haynes had to press me to get to Snake," the former Pleasanton resident explained.

"And he didn't know what to do. If he goes in, I take him in, if he goes out, I take him out."

Raider head coach John Madden was emotionally drained but not suprised by the outcome.

"This team has been through so more adversity and so many situations that when something comes up in a game, we've been there," he said.

New England's players believed they were hit with a little adversity of their own.

The talk in the Patriot locker roomcentered on the Hamilton roughing call. "I thought we got screwed out of it by the refs," said Haynes, summimg up the attitude of New England, which understandably didn't pay much heed to its own seven first downs by penalty.

Sam Cunningham, who led the Patriots in rushing despite the effects of a lingering injury, refused to be drawn into that debate.

"I don't like to accuse anyone of anything," he said. "Whatever happens, happens."

What happens next week at the Coliseum, depends largely on what happens this afternoon by another bay when Baltimore hosts Pittsburg in the other American Football Conference playoff.

Foreman, Fran push Vikes over 'Skins'

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Fran Tarkenton fired three touchdown passes and Chuck Foreman rushed for two more scores as the Minnesota Vikings routed Washington 35-20 Saturday, advancing to the National Football Conference championship game for the third time in four years.

The Vikings strung together three successive 66-yard scoring drives, rolling to a 21-3 lead in the first 22 minutes of the first-round playoff game. Tarkenton's 18-yard touchdown pass to tight end Stu Voight put Minnesota ahead 7-0 only 99 seconds into the contest.

Sammy White's sprawling catch of another Tarkenton pass in the final minute of the opening period boosted the Vikings to a 14-3 lead. Foreman barged in from two yards out midway through the second quarter.

A 30-yard scoring burst by Foreman early in the third period gave Minnesota a 28-3 lead. The Vikings added some insurance in the final minute of the third quarter when White beat Joe Lavender to haul in a nine-yard scoring pitch from Tarkenton.

The Vikings will keep the home field advantage next Sunday against the winner of the Dallas-Los Angeles playoff. That will be for the NFC championship, a game Minnesota has not lost in three previous appearances. Minnesota finished the regular season with an 11-2-1 record, the best in the NFC.

Washington, which had been limited to a pair of field goals by Mark Moseley, finally scored a TD on Bill Kilmer's 12-yard pass to Frank Grant with 10:42 left in the game played under sunny skies and in 42-degree temperature. Kilmer connected again in the final minute.

Haden could start

DALLAS (AP) — Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox said Saturday it "looks like" rookie quarterback Pat Haden will start Sunday against the Dallas Cowboys in a National Conference playoff football game.

Knox said, "It looks like it will be Haden. If he does start it will be the fourth different quarterback in four years to start a playoff game for us. I think that is unprecedented in National Football League history."

The other previous starters were John Hadl, James Harris, and Ron Jaworski.

Haden suffered strained knee ligaments in the closing regular season game against Detroit. Haden has been working out and throwing well in practice.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said "Haden is a fine competitor ... the type of player who tends to give a team confidence. Their team is such that the quarterback position doesn't dominate the offense. Everything is in gear (for the Rams). There are not too many gears out of mesh."

Landry said all the Cowboys are healthy except cornerback Mel Renfro who is still having trouble with a knee.

Rushing gains honors

Vance Rushing of Granada High School was recently named to an All - Bay Area prep football all-star team by a coaches' panel for one of the San Francisco newspapers.

Rushing made the first team offensive unit. The 5-11, 195 pound running back was the bellweather of Granada's co-champions this past season on offense.

Mike Nalty of Granada made the second-team unit as a defensive lineman.

Dublin's Jim Boulware, an All-East Bay pick, made the second team offensive unit. Boulware was the East Bay Athletic League's leading rusher.

Granada was one of five schools to land two players on the "dream" team. The other schools were Leland and Yerba Buena of San Jose, Los Altos and Campolindo.

Kyle Stevens from Yerba Buena was the Bay Area's leading rusher this year. He gained over 2,000 yards on the ground and led his team to a third-place finish in the 12-team Mt. Hamilton League.

AV, Pokes fight to tie

By Dave Weber

Livermore High School's defense dealt admirably with second - half pressure from the Amador Valley Dons to once again avert defeat at the hands of their long - time Pleasanton rivals via a 1-1 tie Friday afternoon on the Cowboys' field.

Robert Turpin netted a centering pass from Cary Dean seven minutes into the contest to give the 'Pokes a 1-0 lead, but Livermore couldn't score again, despite a slight edge in shots, 11-10.

After Kevin Crow's unassisted 14 yarder glanced off the right post and into the net at the 25 - minute mark to tie the game, the Livermore defense tightened up.

Although the visitors appeared quicker and forced four second - half corner kicks, the Cowboys dropped as many as eight men back into the goal area to aid goalkeeper Ricky Woods. The strategy paid off as Woods had to make only three saves the entire game, as did Amador's David Perez.

Livermore's anticipation and human - wave assault stifled the Dons for all but a brief moment, ten minutes before the end.

At that point, halfback Brad Boldrini shot a wing pass to Steve Blalock on the left side and Blalock — hero of Tuesday's win over Foothill — centeredthe ball to Pat Cohan, whose four - on - two header bounced over the top of the cage by a foot.

That was the last solid threat by either team and kept the Cowboys unbeaten in games with Amador dating back to 1973. That was the same year the teams last tied, 1-1, in Pleasanton.

Don coach Mike Geib praised his fullbacks along with Cohan and Crow, but didn't see eye - to - eye with the officials. He blamed referee Riley Carver's interpretation of the advantage rule for several disruptions of Amador's momentum.

"One time we had a breakaway going, and he called a foul way back there," Geib claimed.

The tie deprived both teams of a share of first place, thanks to Granada's victory over San Ramon.

Mats rout SR, lead loop

By Gary Brown

Someday the San Ramon Wolves are going to score a goal in an East Bay Athletic League soccer match but that "someday" was not Friday afternoon as host Granada rolled over SR, 7-0, to keep the Wolves' scoreless string going.

San Ramon has scored nary a goal in six EBAL matches while allowing 15. On the other hand, the Matadors have rolled up 22 goals against just nine for their opponents in taking a 5-1 EBAL record and half - game lead into the Christmas break.

As the score indicates, the match was never in doubt.

Manzar Iqbal, who is rapidly turning into a one - man scoring machine for the Matadors, scored two goals in the first 11 minutes of the opening half and Granada breezed in from there. Iqbal had four for the match.

Iqbal's first goal came on as assist from Kurt Honodel who booted the ball to Manzar five yards from the net. Iqbal promtply kicked the ball in past the outstretched hands of San Ramon goalie Dennis Darrin.

Six minutes later Manzer took a pass from Shannon Estill and booted one in from four yards out.

Estill got his turn to score with 16 minutes elapsed when he broke free, took a kick from Kevin Burke and booted it in from six yards.

Igbal ended the first half scoring with a six - yarder on an Estill assist.

Matador coach Bill Coupe used his reserves liberally in the second period but Granada still managed to put three more goals through the nets.

Frank Matzkus opened the second half scoring with five minutes gone when he booted in a five - yarder off an assist from Estill.

Estill, who played a brillant all - around game, came back 20 minutes later with an eight - yard direct kick on a breakaway.

Five minutes later Iqbal ended the match's scoring with a 10 - yarder off an assist from Gary Bannister, who switched from goalie to forward in the second period.

To show the complete dominence of the Matadors, Granada had 30 shots on goal, 21 of them coming in the first half. San Ramon only had four. The Wolves did have three corner kicks to none for Granada.

Bannister and second - string goalie Ron King each had four saves for the winners. Darrin garnered seven for San Ramon.

Coupe discussed his team's win calmly after the contest was over.

"We had a chance to play a lot of guys today," he confessed. "I wouldn't really call this our best game of the season.

Falcons revive in time, topple Monte Vista, 2-0

By Brian Martin

Christmas vacation was about to become a sister - kissing nightmare for the Foothill Falcons with four minutes left in their soccer match with Monte Vista Friday.

In the midst of a scoreless tie, the Falcons reared up for two quick offensive bursts, both resulting in goals, to pull out a skin tight 2-0 win over the Mustangs in Pleasanton.

The victory pushed the Falcons' mark up to 4-2, while Monte Vista journeyed home to the tree with an even 3-3 record.

The rugged Mustangs very coyly averted a Falcon score for the first 66 minutes of the game. What happened in the final four can only be explained as an early gift for the Falcons.

John Malloney, a Monte Vista fullback, pushed Foothill's Jeff Ghidossi to the ground inside of the penalty area while Ghidossi was about to shoot. The ensuing foul call for "Dangerous move" resulted in an indirect kick that center - halfback Bruno Delaurier took charge of.

Delaurier booted the ball off the wall of Mustangs gathered around the goal net, but Foothill's Dave Laudenbach toed the rebound and kicked it back, the ball hitting the top post of the goal net and falling in.

Just three minutes later, Ghidossi avenged the Mustang defense by beating them to a ball booted upfield by Mike Cerdan.

Ghidossi saw Monte Vista goalie Jeff Boles go to his knees too quick and took advantage, rapping a concise ten - yard shot that creased the nets for the inal margin of victory.

The sudden burst of the Falcons even left coach Keith Sweet at a loss. "It wasn't a change in momentum, or anything like that," he said. "I'd like to say we've practiced that play (Delaurier's indirect kick) over and over, but ... " Sweet remarked on the excellent play of defensivemen Dave Alnert and Steve Kent, who saved many a Mustang offensive attack in the second half.

"Our midfield play improved in the second half," explained Sweet, "mainly because of the change in personnel. We came out of the half wanting to control the ball, look for the open spaces, and attack the goal."

The personnel changes in Foohill's unique 3-2-2-3 alignment included moving Ghidossi to right wing, and switching fullbacks Cliff Woodward and Mike Credan.

The Mustangs were extremely blessed with the Christmas spirit at one point during the second half.

With the ball in Foothill's territory, the Mustangs took control of a loose ball and booted it far into Monte Vista country.

Despite cries of offsides from the Foothill sidelines, Monte Vista's Basim Mogannam picked up the dribble and had Foothill goalie Dave Konecny one - on - one.

Konecny committed himself and charged out towards Mogannam, but the Mustang sidestepped Konecny and had a wide - open shot at the goal. Awed by the cinchness of the situation, Basim blew the shot, the ball rolling off to the right of the net.

It was the most satisfying gift the Falcons will probably receive this year.

Monte Vista coach Alex La Beaux, although disappointed with his effort, talked highly of the Falcons. "I think they look good, they waited for the right opportunity to score the goal. I thought our team controlled the middle of the field more often," he added, noting his Mustangs were just as young and inexperienced as the surprising Falcons. "I have seven sophomores out there."

The Falcons return to play after vacation against Granada, while the Mustangs tackle Livermore.

Lane sparks Foothill

CASTRO VALLEY — After Steve Sperber fouled out of the contest with 4:10 remaining in the Canyon basketball game here Friday night it appeared the Falcons' chances went with him.

Not so. Foothill coach Tom Hansen sent in Joseph Lane and the senior (who did not play at all last season) came on to score three BIG points and grab five rebounds as the Falcons took an exciting 58-57 win over the host team.

Sperber, 6-5, had scored 18 points and garnered 12 rebounds, but his presence wasn't missed that much as the Falcons gained their fifth victory against three setbacks in the non - league campaign.

When Sperber fouled out the Falcons had a slim 49-46 lead. The Cougars pulled within one point several times but could never surge past Foothill. The Falcons went to the foul line time and again to secure the victory.

Foothill shot 17 charity shots and made 11 in the final period alone and that spelled doom for the Cougars.

However, Canyon made it tough for awhile.

The Cougars came within one point with 3:40 left on a layup by Darrel Banks and Tim Parker's two free throws. However, Rick Rosenbach, who shared high scoring honors for Foothill with Sperber, and Lane responded with three charity shots to up the advantage to four again with 2:40 left.

Canyon scrambled back as Banks hit a jumper and Parker a tip - in but Lane swished two free throws to ice the contest for Foothill.

Banks hit 15 points to lead the Cougars. However, Banks hit just five of 12 from the line and Canyon as a team sank a poor 13 of 22 for the game.

Gil Akers and Tate Banks each added 14 points for the losers. Parker had eight, six of them in the fourth quarter.

Dublin ends 2nd quarter jinx, rolls over Spartans, 52-44

Dublin High School's basketball team managed to avoid the major problem that has been plaguing it during the non-league schedule Friday night and as a result picked up a convincing 52-44 win over the Castro Valley Spartans in the winners' gym.

In most of the Gaels' games this season Dublin has suffered a letdown in the second period. The Castro Valley game was an exception, however, as the hosts outscored the Spartans 16-10 to creep within two points at halftime, 28-26.

"That's been our big problem this year," admitted Gael coach Don Nelson. "It always seemed like we would just let the game get away in the second period and that would be it."

But Friday night the tables were turned and the Gael second period surge had an adverse effect on Castro Valley's game.

The Spartans hit a dry spell late in the second period with 1:50 remaining and couldn't score again until 1:36 was left in the third quarter. Meanwhile, Dublin scored 10 straight points to turn a 28-22 deficit into a 32-28 advantage which it never gave up.

The fourth quarter saw the Gaels take advantage of some costly Castro Valley turnovers. Dublin took its largest lead of the game, 50-36 with 3.00 left on Norris Reese's jump shot. Reese played a big part in the Gaels' fourth quarter play, scoring five points and garnering four rebounds in tha period.

The 6-4 Reese gave the Gaels board strength as he garnered seven of their 34 rebounds for the contest. Castro Valley had 29.

"He's improved," Nelson said of Reese. "I measured him at 6-4 without shoes so he helps us on the boards."

After the Gaels had taken the 50-36 advantage Castro Valley started pressing more effectively and lowered the Dublin margin to 50-44 before Reese again hit an outside jumper to end the games' scoring.

The vistors started the game out like they were going to run the Gaels right out of their own gym.

After Dublin had taken a 6-2 lead in the first two minutes of the contest Mike Kirby and Mike Martin each hit short jumpers to tie the score. The Spartans then outscored the Gaels 12-4 in the remainder of the quarter for an 18-10 advantage at the period break.

Castro Valley upped its margin to 20-10 and 26-14 in the early stages of the second period but from then on the Gaels started to assert themselves on the defensive boards, preventing the Spartans from getting the extra shot.

Some hot shooting by Dane Seropian and Mike Harris helped pull the Gaels back within breathing distance of the vistors.

Seropian ended the game as the Gaels' leading scorer with 15 points, hitting seven of eight free throw attempts. In fact Dublin had a big advantage at the foul line, canning 16 of 25 charity shots to the Spartans' four conversions of seven attempts.

Wes Howell was the only Spartan in double figures, swishing the nets for five field goals and 10 points. Bill Daigre followed with nine with eight markers.

Nelson praised his entire team for what he called "our mostcomplete game to date".

"It was really a team effort," he said. "We prevented them from getting the second shot and that was a big difference from some of our previous games. Jim Boulware, who has been a real hustler for us, didn't play tonight because he's had the flu.

"Actually, we've played well recently. We lost to Monte Vista, 61-58 in the Del Oro Tournament last weekend consolation finals last weekend and I thought we did all right there."

The victory moves the Gaels to 2-6 on the season. Dublin will have two games over the Christmas Holidays. The Gaels host Acalanes at 7:30 Tuesday and will travel to Pleasant Hill December 30.

Cup Zone action

Smith, Lutz breeze

TUCSON, Ariz. — Stan Smith and Bob Lutz, who have been playing tennis as a team since they were school kids in California, crushed Mexico's Raul Ramirez and Emilio Montano 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 Saturday to give the United States a clinching doubles victory in the semifinals of the North American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

It was purely vintage Smith and Lutz.

The 6 -foot - 4 Smith, from Pasadena, covered the court like a blanket with his long legs and arms, pelting overheads into the stands. Lutz, from Los Angeles, built like a football halfback, showed the quickness and deft reflexes that have made him one of the world's best doubles performers.

The triumph gave the Americans an insurmountable 3-0 lead in the best - of - 5 series and turned the final two singles Sunday into meaningless exhibitions.

Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn. plays Roberto Chavez in the first match at 1 p.m., EST, with Arthur Ashe meeting Ramirez in the final contest.

The hard - serving Tanner reversed a losing habit against Ramirez by winning Friday 7-5, 6-4, 6-4. Ashe, playing his 31st Davis Cup match in a career spanning 10 years, downed Chavez 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

The two - day sweep without loss of a set assuaged American wounds from losses to Ramirez and his Mexican teammates the last two years.

The United States, which has not won the international trophy since 1972, qualified to play South Africa in the zone final in Newport Beach, Calif., in mid April. The dates will be selected later.

Then follows a long uphill climb against possibly Chile, Australia and finally the survivors of the European eliminations to attain the tennis pinnacle the country has held for so many years.

Smith and Lutz were devastating in their performance before a crowd of about 4,000 at the Tucson Racquet Club Ranch in a theatrical setting at the foot of the Catalina Mountains.

Smith, who is just recovering from a severe racquet arm ailment that has bothered him for more than two years, described the Americans' battle plan.

"We wanted to get a quick start to keep Ramirez from getting too confident," he said. "And we concentrated on hitting that ball at Montano." It was Montano's first Davis Cup appearance.

Cowboys reach JV cage finals

Livermore High School used second and third quarter blitizes to topple San Ramon, 49-38 in semi-final action of its own Fifth Annual Livermore Junior Varsity Basketball Tournament Friday evening.

The Pokes will take on Washington of Fremont in tomorrow's 8 p.m. championship contest. Washington advanced to the finals by topping defending champion Moreau, 49-38.

San Ramon and Moreau will play at 6:30 tomorrow for third place. Monte Vista toppled California 66-53 to take the consolation crown Friday night.

Livermore and San Ramon battled to an 8-8 standoff after one quarter of action but the Pokes outscored their East Bay Athletic League opponents 19-8 in the second quarter to take a commanding lead.

Mike Mays paced the winners with 12 points and Bob Bolen added 10.

In opening round action Thursday Bolen scored 14 points in leading Livermore past California, 42-35 and Moreau clipped Monte Vista 53-46 although Ted Helgens scored 21 markers for the losers.

Round Hill picked as LPGA stop

ALAMO — After months of speculation and uncertainty, Round Hill Country Club has been confirmed as the site of a stop on the Ladies Professional Golfers Association Tour.

To be called "The Sarah Coventry," the tournament will be sponsored by the jewelry company of the same name, president David Gibson announced yesterday. With a total purse of $100,000, the Coventry will become one of the richest events on the LPGA tour.

Some of the receipts from the tourney will go to the Costeau Society, an environmental group headed by undersea explorer Jacques Yves Costeau and to a local charity as yet unnamed.

Round Hill was the site of LPGA tourney's for five prior years, 1969-73. Donna Caponi, in her pre - Young and pre - diet days, won the initial tourney while Sandra Haynie copped the 1973 title. All - time LPGA winning leader Kathy Witworth managed two seconds in the Alamo event.

Further details will be released some time in mid - January, spokesman Semmes Gordon said yesterday.

Peter Finch portrays a network newscaster who has a nervous breakdown on camera in the new movie about big - time television, "Network." Finch says he studied the techniques of real TV broadcasters for his role, but admits he imitates none of them in the film.

Is Movie Version Of TV Accurate?

NEW YORK (AP) — He paces around a darkened, memory - filled office, chainsmoking tiny cigars, listening to the hiss and buzz of an ancient radiator, this writer who has enraged television executives on both coasts.

"Everything in 'Network' is absolutely true," says Paddy Chayefsky, who wrote the screenplay for the movie about the television industry.

"We tell a story about a network that has to kill a guy because his ratings are lousy. That's the whole point of the movie," Chayefsky says. "Some people in television took the movie personally. They thought it was an unfair assessment. I thought it treated news people very favorably."

Chayefsky, an Academy Award - winning writer, dismisses the controversy surrounding his film. Some television moguls have denounced it as a fantasy trip, and others have applauded it for its realism. It has aroused some audiences to shout back to the screen that yes, they too are "fed up" and "mad as hell."

"Oh, the network people will get over it — the ones who are upset," he said. "But most of the people I talked to love it. The characters all said what I think."

Paddy Chayefsky wrote the screenplay for 'Network" and says everything in it "is absolutely true."

The most interesting reactions came from TV's news establishment, as reported by Newsday's Jerry Parker. David Brinkley declined comment. Walter Cronkite, whose daughter Kathy plays a Patty Hearst type in "Network," called it "kind of an amusing farce." Barbara Walters feared "people will think they're getting the inside story, and they're not; they'll never be that kind of show-biz approach to the news." Commented Edwin Newman: "Thoroughly incompetent."

Chayefsky, 53, says he hates television even though he flourished in the industry during its golden age in the 1950s.

"When I was in television, they had terrific ideas and people and inventive programing," the bearded writer said, shifting now and then in his desk chair. "But television destroys talent. It doesn't allow for natural invention."

It is the institution itself that destroys and not the people in it, he said, because television is dedicated only to profits and ratings.

Do the TV bigwigs protest too much? Certainly "Network" could be rejected if taken at face value. No network has ever retained an anchor man undergoing a nervous breakdown in public, as does Howard Beale (he promises to commit suicide on - camera after being fired for low ratings).

But Chayefsky is a satirist in the Swiftian manner, and he employs the blugeon as he did against the medical profession in "The Hospital."

Old Radio Quiz Gets New Life

"Information Please," one of the classic shows of the days of network radio, has started on the way back to the air, this time as a program designed for public television.

KQED Channel 9, the San Francisco public television station, has received a $48,000 grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to develop the intellectual quiz program for national airing on the Public Broadcasting Service.

During its heyday "Information Please" was virtually the only successful national show whose principal ingredients were wit and erudition.

It made radio stars not of comedians or actors but of its urbane host Clifton Fadiman and its literate panel of experts whose regulars included Franklin P. Adams, James Kieran and Oscar Levant.

The show's audio trademark, a crowing rooster, and the announcer's challenge "Wake Up, America; It's time to stump the experts!" became familiar sounds to millions of Americans.

The program's simple format was based on questions submitted by listeners who received encyclopedia sets for questions that stumped the panel. Quiz questions dealt with art, music, literature, films, theatre as well as general information and current events.

Danny Kaye plays a professor who becomes involved with a nightclub singer in the movie "A Star is Born," Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. on Channel 44. Featured are musical scenes with jazz - great Louis Armstrong.

Mistrust may have killed flu program

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The swine flu immunization program may be dead even if the vaccine is cleared of any connection with a paralytic disease that has led to the second suspension of the program in two months, federal officials indicated.

Meanwhile, the government reported it has discovered 13 more cases of the paralytic disease — the Guillain- -Barre syndrome — and said two of the victims have died. That brings the total number of known cases to 107, with six deaths.

Dr. Theodore Cooper of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said that if a connection is found between the vaccine and the disease "I would be the first one to recommend suspension of the program permanently."

If it is cleared, Cooper said, he will recommend that the immunization program resume.

Cooper, HEW assitant secretary for health, told the Senate health subcommittee that if the program is shut down, it could be resurrected if there were a swine flu epidemic. In that case, he said, any risk from the vaccine would have to be weighed against risk to the public from swine flu.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D - Mass., chairman of the panel, said the latest setback to the program may have irreparably eroded public confidence in swine flu immunizations.

On Thursday, Cooper said that shaken public confidence in the vaccine and the fact that restarting the program may come too late in the influenza season for effective immunization cloud the program's future.

He would not declare the swine flu program dead yet, but he conceded that it would be difficult for it to go on.

"It will be very difficult to convince the public," said Dr. Cooper.

Federal officials suspended the program to investigate reports that some vaccinated persons have developed Guillain - Barre syndrome, a disease affecting the nervous system.

Officials stressed that there was no proven association between the swine flu vaccine and the disease, but that the program suspension was "prudent" until the possibility of such a link was checked out.

Dr. Cooper said the program may be suspended "as much as a month" while investigators review data. If it takes this long, it could be mid - January before the program is restarted, well into the traditional flu season, he said.

Dr. Cooper said the U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta so far has uncovered 107 cases of Guillain-Barre syndrome through the flu program's surveillance program. Of these, 58 had been vaccinated against swine flu, 34 had not and the status of 15 was unkown, Dr. Cooper said.

Six persons with the disease have died. Of the four deaths reported yesterday, each victim had received swine flu vaccine, officials said. Three of the deaths were attributed to respiratory failure, and one to blood clots in the lungs. Dr. Cooper gave no indication of the cause of death of the latest two victims.

Williame Foege, assistant CDC administrator, also indicated that the program faces a dim future.

"We recognized that when we stopped it, it would be intensely difficult to restart" because public confidence in the program would have been shaken, Foege said.

But he and other health officials emphasized that if a swine flu epidemic begins to develop, the program would restart immediately.

"The rist (from the syndrome) is small no matter how we look at it. The rise is nowhere near the risk of flu," Foege said.

Since President Ford initiated the $135-million swine flu program last spring, it has been dogged with problems. A White House spokesman said President Ford "concurred in the decision" about the latest suspension.

Leahy Square child center seeking aid

LIVERMORE — Little Cara Celli tumbles through the doorway, a green beret jammed over her eyes.

"Aaargh!" Small arms outstretched. Frankenstein, obviously.

Tammy Finch trails behind her, sporting a straggly blonde wig put on backwards. Meanwhile, Johnny Matheson and Timmy Ballard are making macho roars as they go into breathtaking skids on their Big Wheels.

The free child - care center at Leahy Square is in full swing, and as far as the kids are concerned there will always be a big sunny room full of pillows and blocks and toys, a play yard with swings and bikes.

But this afternoon, center director Carol Pitzer isn't paying much attention to the kids. Insted, she and aide Marlys Nigg are telling visitors about the financial crisis that may cut back a program that has already been sliced in half since last year.

Community help — in the form of donations of labor, toys, supplies or cash — are needed to match the money being given to the center by the federal ACAP (Associated Community Action Program) project. There are only 12 children in the center, but their tiny staff and board are already coming up with $1,600 a month in donations and need $400 a month more to keep the center operating at its present capacity.

The Leahy Square day - care facility is different from the others in town because it offers completely free day care to qualifying parents who have extremely low incomes (like $4,600 for a family of three) and who are working or getting job training.

It's located off East Avenue in the Leahy Square low - income housing development.

As with many federally funded agencies, the day care center has had to change its structure to continue qualifying for money. Incorporation as a nonprofit agency is underway. The board hopes to double enrollment next month by cooperating with the new Valley Child Care service which gives day care subsidies to low - income families.

Because of the increasing demands, the center has fallen behind in "in - kind donations," as community support is called.

Already they are taking advantage of volunteer aides at the center; groups such as the Nu Phi chapter of Dehta Theta Tau and the Delta Zeta Kappa sorority of Beta Sigma Phi who provide parties and gifts for the kids; free help from former director Claire Nelson on payroll and food service; and assistance from the parents themselves who bring in everything from oranges to envelopes.

"But a little handful of people can only do so much," the school director says.

"Now we need the community to help us."

Donated labor is credited to the school at $2.50 an hour for unskilled work, up to $25 an hour for professional consultants. Dentists, doctors, teachers, psychologists or nutritionists who volunteer to fill a cavity or test a child or plan a set of menus will bring the center credits equal to the amount they would ordinarily receive for the same services.

They can also use painters to refurbish the walls; people with strong arms to do some digging and gardening in the play yard; and anyone else who is willing on a one - time or regular basis to fill out their staff of one cook, two teachers (including Carol) and two aides.

They have no money for supplies or equipment and can use almost anything: paper, crayons, paints, toys, bikes, blocks, even spare clothing for children who spill their milk on their jeans and need a dry pair for the rest of the day.

Carol has a slide presentation prepared to show any organization interested in the center's plight. She may be contacted at 455 - 6172 by those interested in helping out.

Final doses produced

NEW YORK (AP) — The manufacturing of swine flu vaccine has been nearly completed and production of the last few millions of doses will go ahead as planned, a federal spokesman said Friday.

As of Friday, there were 101,371,900 doses in the field, according to the swine flu information office of the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

When production is complete, some 145 to 150 million doses will have been produced by the four drug firms that had contracts with the government, the spokesman said.

Drug firm spokesmen referred questions about any possible link between the vaccine and the reported cases of paralysis to the federal Center for Disease Control, which was investigating.

At Merck Sharp & Dohme in West Point, Pa., a spokesman said 41 million doses had been manufactured so far and that the final production figure would be about 50 million.

Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, said production had been completed, and that it had manufactured 32 million doses of the vaccine.

'My left eye dropped'

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. — It was the third morning after Karen O'Brien got her swine flu shot.

"I couldn't spit out my toothpaste," said the 30 - year - old mother of two children. "I looked in the mirror. The right side of my face drooped. It looked like I had had a stroke. I couldn't close my right eye. My left eye drooped."

Mrs. O'Brien is one of nearly 35 million Americans who have taken the swine flu shot. She received her shot at a mass inoculation center in Arlington Heights at 6 p.m. on Sunday Nov. 14.

"On Monday I played tennis," she recalled. "I felt that my mouth was unusually dry. Tuesday morning I noticed a numbness in my mouth, mostly my tongue. Tuesday afternoon I noticed something wrong with my right eye, but I didn't know just what. It just bothered me. Then Wednesday morning I knew something definitely was happening to me."

Mrs. O'Brien was experiencing symptoms similar to the first stages of a temporary paralysis called Gullain - Barre syndrome. More than 100 cases of the disease had been reported by Friday, and six people were dead. No firm link between the shots and the disease had been established, but the government's mass inoculation program was in hibernation, perhaps never to be revived, because of a possible link.

Mrs. O'Brien went to the emergency ward of Northwest Community Hospital that Wednesday morning. "I casually mentioned that I had had a swine flu shot that previous Sunday," she said. "They took skull X - rays and blood tests and gave me some medicine. They couldn't find anything wrong."

Mrs. O'Brien said she had no idea at the time whether the problem was connected with her swine flu vaccination. She was not hospitalized, her condition was never formally diagnosed as Gullain - Barre syndrome and she never experienced the full crippling paralysis of the disease. She is no longer on medication and the paralysis in her face is fading.

"The corner of my mouth still droops and my left eye droops now and then," she said. "I can close my right eye. The numbness in my mouth comes and goes."

"I've tried to think positive through this whole thing," she said. But still, she added, there is a tingling sensation at times in her hands and legs, and it is not her imagination.

CCC sets clinics on rabies

MARTINEZ — The county low-cost rabies clinics for dogs will be held each Sunday the next two months, beginning Jan. 9, at different county locations.

All dogs four months old or over are required to be licensed, and must have had a rabies vaccination before the license is sold. Rabies shots are good for two years, the licenses for one.

County Agricultural Commissioner Kenneth Danielson said all the clinics will be held Sundays from 1-4 p.m., for dogs only, with the shots costing $2.

After each dog is vaccinated, the owner can get its license at the clinic. Licenses are $6 if purchased before March 1, except $3 for dogs for which the owner can present a veterinarian's certificate of spaying or neutering. There is a $4 penalty for late licensing.

Danielson noted the license fee is separate from the vaccination fee, so those paying by check are advised to bring two checks.

All dogs should be on a short leash, with each person handling only one dog. Only dogs and handlers will be allowed into the vaccination areas.

Contra Costa Veterinary Medical Association members are contributing their time as a public service, Danielson noted.

The clinic schedule:

Jan. 9 — College Park High School, 201 Viking Drive, Pleasant Hill.

Jan. 16 — Richmond County Building, 100 Thirty-seventh St., Richmond.

Jan. 23 — San Ramon Valley High School, Love Lane and Hartz Avenue, Danville.

Jan. 30 — Richmond County Building.

Feb. 6 — County Fairgrounds, 10th and L Streets, Antioch.

Feb. 13 — Richmond County Building.

Feb. 27 — Walnut Creek Recreation Center, 1395 Civic Drive, Walnut Creek.

Reports on service personnel

LIVERMORE — Four Livermore men, stationed aboard the replenishment oiler USS Wabash, recently returned from a five - month deployment to the Western Pacific and the Indian Ocean.

Crewmembers aboard the Wabash, homeported at San Francisco, include:

Navy Radioman Second Class Stephen D. Dempsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dempsey of 233 Anna Maria St., who joined the Navy in December, 1970;

Navy Boiler Technician Fireman John M. Ritter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max J. Ritter of 342 School St., a 1971 graduate of Livermore High School who joined the Navy in April, 1973;

Navy Radioman Third Class Ronnie M. Hunter, son of Edith G. Hunter of South K Street, and whose wife, Arla, is the daughter of W.E. Dye of North K Street, joined the Navy in April, 1975;

Navy Boiler Technician Third Class Robert C. Dhannis, whose wife, Cindy, resides on Las Flores Road, joined the Navy in January, 1973.

The Wabash provided underway replenishment to other fleet units in support of the seventh fleet. His ship supplied aviation fuel, petroleum, ammunitions, dry and refrigerated stores.

While on an extended deployment to the Indian Ocean and Western Pacific, USS Wabash participated in fleet training exercises. The ship made port visits at Subic, Republic of Philippines; Pusan, South Korea; Guam; and Yokosuka, Japan.

DUBLIN — Airman Jeffrey A. Sturgis, whose mother is Mrs. Janet A. Zuercher of Amanda Way, has graduated at Lackland AFB, Texas, from Air Force basic training.

The airman, who studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations, is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field.

Airman Sturgis is a 1971 graduate of Lodi High School.

LIVERMORE — Navy Fireman Richard B. Slone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hasel J. Slone Jr. of 2660 Kennedy St., has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center in Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied seamanship, close order drill, naval history and first aid.

A 1976 graduate of Granada High School, he joined the Navy in August, 1976.

PLEASANTON — Erik N. Lange, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lange of Pleasanton, has enlisted in the U.S. Air Forces' delayed entry program.

Lange, who attended Amador High School and Chabot College, will leave for training and active duty in January.

Upon completion of six weeks of Air Force basic training, he will be assigned in the administrative career area.

LIVERMORE — Raymond M. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Hamilton of Livermore, recently left for six weeks of Air Force basic training.

A 1975 graduate of Del Valle High School, he will be going into the mechanical career area after completion of basic training.

Hamilton plans to attend the Jet Aircraft Engine School at Sheppard AFB, Witchata Falls, Texas, and receive his jet engine license.

DUBLIN — Navy Seaman Apprentice Neil C. Holmdahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Holmdahl of 8524 Beverly Lane, was recently graduated from Basic Signalman School.

Students at the Orlando, Fla. training center studied Morse Code, how to transmit by flashing light, and how to send messages by semaphore and hoisted flags.

A 1976 graduate of Dublin High School, he joined the Navy in July, 1976.

LIVERMORE — Richard W. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zane Thomas of Livermore, recently enlisted in the U.S. Air Forces' delayed enlistment program.

Thomas will leave for basic training in July, after graduating Granada High School in June.

Graduation standards tighten

A new state Assembly bill which takes effect Jan. 1 makes extensive changes in current statutory provisions regarding high school graduation standards.

AB 3408, authored by Gary Hart of Santa Barbara, reorganizes existing sections of the law and provides for local development of alternative means for completing locally - required course or courses of study.

Provisions of the existing law require that local school boards establish minimum academic standards for high school graduation and that students complete the required course of study and meet standards of proficiency in basic skills as determined by local governing boards.

Hart's legislation, which was reviewed by the Amador Valley Joint High School board Tuesday, separates and further specifies the existing requirement for proficiency in basic skills. The five major provisions regarding basic skill proficiences are:

— School boards must adopt standards of proficiency by June 1, 1978, in basic skill areas including, but not limited to, reading comprehension, writing and computation.

— Students must be assessed at least once in grades 7-9 and twice in grades 10-11 on their proficiency in meeting the prescribed standards. Students who demonstrate proficiency do not have to be reassessed.

— School districts must hold a conference with the student who does not meet the prescribed standards and with the student's parents to discuss the assessment and proposed instructional assistance.

— School districts must provide instruction in basic skills for any student who does not meet the established standards.

— After June of 1980, no student shall graduate from high school who has not met the standards of proficiency.

Wilson Riles, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, has said that implementing the provisions of the bill is primarily the responsibility of local districts, but several activities have been initiated to assist in fulfilling responsibilities.

First, a Field Input Committee comprised of students, teachers, administrators, parents and other public representatives is being formed to advise the state on the development of the legislatively - required examples of standards of basic skill proficiencies and a framework for assessing student proficiency and will be forwarded to districts such as Amador, Livermore and San Ramon during 1977 and 1978.

The legislation provides funds, beginning in 1978-79, for reimbursing districts solely for the costs of notifying parents about the results of the assessment of their children's proficiencies.
